A note to the reader

Today is proof that the future is impossible to predict. When Trent was founded over 50 years ago, the University experience looked different than it does today. But while the future isn't something to predict, we believe it is something to shape.

Whether you are exploring Trent University as an on-campus option, virtual opportunity, or a combination of the two, know that your experience will be grounded in our dedication to learning. Our anthem, Challenge the way you think, is a call to discover your perspective, challenge it, rebuild it, and share it.

Together, we are a community of scholars grounded in diversity – brought together from around the world, with different ideas, and different inspirations. Individually, every Trent student is a symbol of opportunity. Every Trent student is given the opportunity to experience their education in a way that inspires them to grow and find meaning in their pursuits.

We don't know what tomorrow will look like, but we know it will be shaped by Trent thinkers.

The stories you'll tell

FIND YOUR Community

You don’t just attend Trent. You become Trent—and Trent becomes a part of you.

Ask an alum about their time here and be prepared to clear your schedule. Like them, the stories (novels) told from your time at Trent will be meaningful, inspirational and most importantly, unforgettable.

At Trent, academics are just the beginning of your university experience. Outside the lecture hall or lab, you’ll find a community, club, group, or cause to engage with, explore your passions and discover yourself.

WITH SO MANY CLUBS AND GROUPS TO CHOOSE FROM, WHICH ONE(S) WILL YOU JOIN?

01 Join the (Academic) Club

Complement your in-class experience as you build connections to other students in your program. Clubs like the Trent Oshawa Psychology Association, the Trent Durham Social Work Association or the Child & Youth Studies Intersectionality Circle bring together like-minded students in spaces and activities to socialize and connect with leading faculty, too.

02 Explore Student Government

Your student association – the Trent Durham Student Association (TDSA) – not only provides pivotal services for students, by students, they also offer many opportunities to get involved on campus and in the community.

03 Make Cultural Connections

Looking to connect with the diverse cultures and experiences that come together at Trent? Clubs and groups like the African, Black, Caribbean Student Club, Indigenous Student Circle, or the Muslim Students Association are great ways to get involved.

04 Get Creative

Passion for knitting, want to make an impact on stage or love to write? Try Jazz Hands (our own theatre group), Knitting Club, Writers’ Block writing circle or the Improv Club. There are numerous clubs and activities to help you get creative on campus, make new friends and have fun.

05 Learn to Lead

Our wide range of skill-building opportunities will help prepare you for a variety of leadership roles. Become a peer mentor, pen pal, orientation leader, club executive, or sign up for one of Trent’s leadership certificate programs.

06 Expand your Hobbies & Interests

Whether you love DnD, want to advocate for LGBTQ+ inclusivity, have a passion for vegan food, or anything in between – there is a club for you at Trent.

Don’t see a club or group that matches your interests? If what you’re into is new to Trent, you’re provided the means and encouragement to bring it to life.

Stories of Learning

The ways
you'll learn

DEGREES OF Distinction

*Personal. Purposeful. Transformative.
Your Trent experience awaits.*

Learning is Key, Questioning is Crucial

Trent is known for its flexible, interdisciplinary approach to learning and its commitment to real-world, hands-on experience, in the classroom and beyond. Here, students learn in small-group settings, giving you the opportunity to build strong relationships with our caring and committed faculty – gifted teachers who also happen to be top experts in their fields. Imagine what an edge this can give you when you're looking for a letter of recommendation in support of your career or academic next move.

Twenty-to-One

Picture yourself in a class of just 20 students and one professor in your first year of university. Yes, at Trent, it is possible. Critical Engagement (UNIV 1004H) is a small-class first-year university course offered in person and online that allows students in the humanities, social sciences and sciences to connect with a world-class professor and get to know peers – socially and intellectually – at a time when bringing learners together is more important than ever. Twenty-to-one is also the average ratio of students to faculty at Trent, so no matter what program you choose, you will never be a number here.

Study with the Best

At Trent Durham, learning alongside professors who are leading experts in their fields of study is the norm. As an added bonus, you are able to connect and study while accessing state-of-the-art and dynamic learning facilities. From our convenient computer lab and full-service library to a fully-equipped science lab, and brand new classrooms and lecture halls with all of the latest technology, you have everything you need right here on campus. Did we mention you can also take your learning off-campus, into the community, maybe even an archaeological dig in Belize? Just imagine where you can learn at Trent University.

Go Virtual, Study Anywhere

Your laptop can be a virtual gateway to the Trent community, experience, and education. From fully-online courses and programs, to hybrid on-campus and virtual options, your Trent experience will provide you with access to everything you need to not only grow in your chosen academic field, but also connect with the Trent community. A personal education from anywhere.

PREPARE FOR YOUR Tomorrow

If you're looking for hands-on learning and real-world experience, look no further. Life lessons gained through experiential learning are paramount to the Trent experience. In fact, here at Trent, every student is guaranteed to have meaningful, purposeful, and recorded career-boosting learning opportunities that will contribute to your success as you enter the workforce.

The best way to get experience is to go get experience. Here's how at Trent:

Work for Credit

Students in nearly every program can earn academic credit in a variety of settings, throughout Ontario and beyond. In fact, 100% of our programs offer courses that feature an experiential learning component.

Placements with Leading Organizations & Businesses

Our popular placement program coordinated through our School of Business, and open to students in all programs, gives students the opportunity to work and gain experience with some of the country's top organizations and businesses. Royal Bank, local hospitals, Ontario Power Generation, and the Canadian Olympic Committee, are just a few. Many other programs at Trent also offer dynamic placements.

Make a Difference, Build Community

Lead a project that makes a big impact with a community organization such as the Durham Food Bank or the City of Oshawa. Become a community builder by engaging in the TeachingCity Oshawa partnership which provides placement and course based opportunities to tackle urban issues through applied research, collaboration and innovation with faculty and City of Oshawa staff.

Learn Alongside the Experts

Conduct hands-on research with leading professors and researchers starting as early as your first year – assist in an archaeological dig in Belize, study historical texts or participate in psychological studies.

Go International

Scale up your competitive edge as you incorporate international experiences with field placements, research projects, intensive language programs and internships. Take on a world of experience including opportunities to do business in Japan, teach in England or study marine life in Taiwan.

The Trent Careerspace Advantage

No matter what subject you study at Trent, we will help you relate it to your career success. By combining your academic subject and in-class learning with real-world hands-on experiences, we ensure all students are job ready upon graduation. Along the way, Careerspace at Trent provides you with resources, tools and supports to help you explore your passions and find your path. Resumé and cover letter writing workshops; mentorship opportunities; networking events; job search support; and one-on-one career development sessions. Careerspace offers it all.

STUDY, RESEARCH, GAIN EXPERIENCE ABROAD

Want to live your education in a global way? Study at Trent and explore the world through a study abroad experience. Choose from a formal exchange with more than 50 partner universities or design your own experience in one of 35 countries worldwide.

Year Abroad

Master a new language, or gain career experience (and study too!) through a volunteer placement or internship. Studying abroad allows you to experience other countries, cultures or languages up-close and first-hand.

Academic Summer Field Courses

Academic credit for a summer abroad? Yes please! Explore environmental issues in the Mediterranean Marine system, earn credit on an archaeological dig in Greece, learn about Indigenous culture in Mexico, or study pink dolphins in Taiwan. The opportunities for these shorter-term courses are nearly limitless.

International Placements and Internships

Gain international knowledge and cultural insight, all while developing your career prospects overseas. Whether it's for a couple of weeks or a summer term, Trent can help you get international work experience.

Exchange Programs

It's a simple swap: spend a semester or year at another university and a student from that school will come to Trent. If our exchange program doesn't offer the destination you want, we'll help you set up a personalized study-abroad opportunity at the school of your choice.

TRENT HELPS YOU TAKE FLIGHT

Worried about the cost of studying abroad? Trent's bursaries, awards, and prizes can all be used towards funding this once-in-a-lifetime study experience.

A TRULY INTERNATIONAL CAMPUS EXPERIENCE

Trent International brings the world to Trent and Trent to the world. Our vibrant international learning community is made up of students from around the globe, all coming together to study and learn. Whether you're from Peterborough or Paraguay, you have plenty of opportunities to get involved and engaged in global discussions with people from around the world – right here on campus.

"Being able to study abroad was powerful in ways that words cannot describe. I would encourage any student to take this opportunity. The friendships, learning, and personal growth that will take place are memories that you'll be sharing with family and friends for years to come."

STORIES OF Learning

Unearthing Experience

"For five weeks, I woke up to the crowing of roosters and fell asleep to the sounds of Howler monkeys in Indian Church, Belize. For eight hours a day, five days a week, with the accompaniment of Belizean music, I worked alongside Dr. Helen Haines, director of the Ka'Kabish Archeological Research Project and professor at Trent Durham GTA, and put all of the classroom archeological theory into practice. The dig was focused on gaining knowledge about the residential lives, status, and chronology of the ancient Maya people of Ka'Kabish. Much of this knowledge is gained through examining the artifacts recovered during the field season, including ceramics, lithics (stone tools), faunal remains, and obsidian (volcanic glass). I also learned, in my opinion, that the work—physical, dirty, sweaty—definitely trumps any desk job. My advice to all students—new, returning, mature—is to expand the boundaries of your learning environment. You really won't know what you can unearth until you try something new."

Olivia Molica Lazzaro, Psychology and Anthropology joint major

Living and Learning

"Through our collegiate residence system, Trent strives to create an all-encompassing experience that combines academic, social, and living spaces into one area. Classes and social spaces are offered in conjunction with the residence and are even housed in the same building, all under one roof. Not only is travel to class instantaneous, but the combination of classrooms and living spaces make Trent a true home where all aspects of living and learning are readily accessible."

As a senior residence life don at Trent Durham, Michelle Arshad is part of a team offering support and guidance for students. Her favourite part of the role? Running crowd favourite events like group movie nights.

From Internship to Career

"A huge benefit of an internship is that you get to try things out and learn a lot about yourself and what you truly want in a career. Textbooks and lectures can only teach you so much; it's that hands-on field experience and those real-world connections you make on the job that will ultimately elevate your career in the long run."

Stephen Melissis, School of Business graduate, completed an internship with the Durham Workforce Authority during his time as a student. Impressing his supervisors, he was later hired as DWA's community labour market specialist shortly after graduating from Trent.

A Portal to Potential

"As a Trent alumnus, I can tell you that Trent never fully subscribed to the notion of robed professors and students conversing in academic classrooms. Instead, knowledge and critical thinking informs experiential learning, real community impact and future job preparedness. Our students are taking hands-on, thoughtful approaches to real issues – tackling water quality challenges or electric car strategies right here in Durham Region. The project-based format is also a win-win for the community looking for new ideas and talent. So is developing students who can put down roots or create their own startups in the area. Trent Durham is not only a launch pad to the community, the GTA and the globe. It's also a portal to study abroad experiences, knowledge resources and limitless potential."

An alumnus of Trent University ('88) with an Honours Bachelor of Arts in English and History, Dr. Scott Henderson is now dean and head of Trent Durham. His research on pop culture explores areas such as music and locality, youth culture, film, television and comic books.

Researching Play

"When I saw the variety of courses offered at Trent, and assignments that challenged students to apply critical-thinking and creativity to real-world situations, I instantly fell in love with psychology. The faculty at Trent Durham are always eager to discuss their research and opportunities for students to become involved. Through my conversations with professors, like Dr. Nancie Im-Bolter, I was able to secure volunteer involvement and practicum courses, both of which have been invaluable in helping me decide what path to pursue. Working with Dr. Im-Bolter as a member of her research lab I've had many opportunities that have definitely influenced my academic career."

Paige Pascoe is taking the lead on her own research project through the highly-competitive honours thesis program. Working with Professor Im-Bolter, the Psychology undergrad is examining whether children who play more during their preschool years develop better reading and math skills later on.

Networks of Relationships

"The rich interactions and networks of relationships involving students, faculty, staff and external stakeholders are patently obvious to anyone who has spent time at Trent. We have built a learning environment where students are supported to acquire knowledge, build relationships and create their own paths. My teaching style, which emphasizes action, practice and integrative thinking, fits very well with this learning environment where teaching and research come together to contribute to a quality educational experience for students, as well as the development of greater society."

Students in our School of Business have the opportunity to work and learn alongside leading professors like Dr. Ken Chen whose research centres on innovation and entrepreneurship strategies in hi-tech and fast-paced markets.

LIBERATE Your Mind

Choose to study in our arts, sciences, social sciences or professional programs – or any combination. Through access to world-class research facilities and connections with leading professors, you'll graduate from Trent ready to take on the world equipped with astute analytical skills, meaningful career experience and the ability to think outside the box. From here, you will find success in any path you choose.

A HANDY LIST OF ACADEMIC TERMS

DEGREES: Also known as "Bachelor's degree" or "undergraduate degree", this is the first level of study at a university, often a three (general) or four year (honours) program that prepares you for your future profession or the next step of your academic career.

Browse our degree programs on pages 36 to 45.

MAJOR: The primary area of study within a degree program, a major involves intensive focus on a particular discipline.

MINOR: An optional secondary field of study that can be related to or different from your major, a minor is usually selected after you begin your studies.

OPTIONS: Often referred to as "mini minors," options are a prescribed set of courses in a discipline outside of your degree. These specific areas of study can be completed alongside almost any undergraduate degree program. A unique focus to your degree provides you with a distinct advantage in the career of your choice.

Explore your options on page 45.

SPECIALIZATIONS: Distinguish your degree by adding a specialization and gain deeper understanding of your chosen discipline. Adding a specialization shows future employers or graduate schools that you're focused and interested in becoming an expert in your field.

See specializations listed under related degrees.

DIPLOMAS: Diploma programs are a great choice for enhancing your broad-based knowledge. They can be completed in 12-24 months, and often lead to a degree program.

Discover your path to a diploma by reviewing our program pages.

POST-GRADUATE CERTIFICATES: These certificate programs are designed to complement the skills and knowledge acquired through the completion of an undergraduate degree to boost your professional skills for in-demand fields.

Learn more about post grad certificates on pages 40 and 42.

ANTHROPOLOGY (B.A. OR B.Sc.)

Are you curious about human societies and how they’ve evolved over time? This is the program for you. Anthropology is the study of human kind, from the earliest peoples to our contemporary digital society. Learn about different peoples, languages, and cultures from around the world and across time as you study the four principal fields of the discipline – archaeological, biological, cultural, and linguistic anthropology. Here, you’ll explore the extraordinary variability in human adaptation, organization, and belief systems, and discover the common circumstances that unite us.
